Release note - UX improvements

What's new

UX improvements

We have released the following UX improvements to the Userlane Portal to make it easier for you to navigate to and better distinguish company account settings from personal user settings.

- The My Account section has been renamed to Account.

- It now contains a drop-down menu with a link to Global settings and the Personal profile of the user that is currently logged in to the Portal, plus the option to sign out.

- The Global settings page now contains:

    - Applications

    - Integrations

    - Team

    - Users

    - Attributes

    - Processes

- The Personal profile page now contains (previously located in My Account > Profile):

    - Login

    - Notifications

    - API Token

> ℹ️ Visibility of the individual menu items might vary depending on user roles and feature activations for your application.
